El ction/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-31, drawn to a method of forming a fastener, classified in class 264, subclass 67.
- II. Claims 32-75, drawn to a fastener, classified in class 24, subclass 306.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as injecting molten material into a static mold to form a tab comprising a multiplicity of fastener elements extending from a rigid sheet-form base which has a highly curved portion and a portion extending at a right angle to form a fastening section of the fastening assembly with both a highly curved and right angle section of substrate; and a spring section integrally extending laterally from the fastening section, the spring section formed by at least one undulation of the sheet-form base comprising voids in the sheet -form base that define undulations within the sheet itself and are not apparent when viewed from the edge of the sheet that allows the spring section to stretch elastically in a lateral direction upon application of lateral tension to the fastening assembly.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Group I comprising figures 1B-1F, 2A, 3D and 7A;

Group II comprising figure 5;

Group III comprising figure 6;

Group IV comprising figures 9A, 9B, 11A, 11B, 12, 13 and 16;

Group V comprising figures 17A, 17B, 20A and 20B; and Group VI comprising figure 18.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

Whether applicant elects the process or article, applicant must in either case elect one of the six groups above so as to elect either a particular article group, if the article is elected, or the particular process associated with the making of one of the above article groups, if the process is elected.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

A telephone call was made to Mr. James W. Babineau on March 14, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
